2013 Reading of the Year Highlights

Dafa 2013 Aiye Highlights

World Leaders are advised to seek spiritual enlightenment and guidance to avoid “the bartender saying one thing and the drunk saying another.”

The ancestral spirits will unravel the mysteries, traps and entanglements this year. All world citizens should employ diplomacy, tact, compromise and seek the highest ideals of our progenitors to avoid losses, dramatic and traumatic changes.

If the United States aspires to be a world leader, must do so from a more sustainable, inclusive and holistic approach. US should be the ones to be thinking outside the box with innovations for the current challenges. Get Young people involved to help find solutions. Be energetic and forceful in communicating the truth, avoid argument and fights.

African Americans have a great opportunity this year to regain and reclaim themselves, families and communities. Must move and organize quickly with discipline, order, system, rule and law. African American are meant to be first, not last as they return to their fundamental strength of spirituality. It is through their spirituality that they will untangle the mysteries, riddles, setbacks that have plagued them in the past. The children are spoken to directly to make swift changes in their character.

Yoruba in the United Kingdom must work to find common ground to work together. Avoid fights and arguments over small petty issues. The youth are seeking discipline and support to be a help in the community this year. The Yoruba in the UK have a tough year of challenges ahead but there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Increased focus and worship to the destiny of the Egbe is advised.

In the motherland of Africa, it is advised to work energetically, quickly with diplomacy, tact, charm and an eye to a sweet future.

Take good care of blood issues, this year may see a breakthrough with aids, malaria, plagues. Determine who are the real friends and enemies of Africa are; the road opener will be opening the roads this year.
